COMPANY, ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA. CAPITAL OVER 350,000 DOLLARS.
AND CONSTANTLY INCREASING.

TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 12, 1859.

The Charter of this Company offers more favorable advantages to the farmer and others, than any Company chartered in the State, by insuring with or without a premium note. If the applicant prefer, he can pay the full amount of the premium in cash, or by effecting a cash insurance for two years, the insured saves one eighth of the amount would otherwise have to pay; or by becoming a member, and giving a small premium note, the in sured saves nearly one half of the amount charged by Stock Companies, when insuring from year to by Stock Companies, when insuring from year to year. This is the advantage resulting from the combination of the

CASH AND MUTUAL PRINCIPLE. This Company commenced issuing Policies against loss or damage by fire, on the 13th day of March, 1854, since which time over seven thousand seven hundred persons have insured and become members of the Company, and over seventy thou sand dollars have been paid for losses. Having increased our business during the past year, we feel grateful for the liberal patronage bestowed upon the Company thus far, and for its flattering prospects of future usefulness. The Directors hope and believe, that, by prudence, caution, and a rigid system of economy, they will establish for this Company a reputation for cheapness and safety not surpassed by any Company in the U. States.

All differences in settlement of losses, may be determined by three disinterested arbitrators of the County where such loss happened, to be mutually chosen by the insured and the Company. DIRECTORS: T. B. Robertson, James T. Close, Thomas T. Hill, Dr. R. H. Stabler, Christopher Neale, R. H. Carter, Wm. Wright, R. F. Lester, P. D. Lipscomb. Silas Biglow. W. M. Turner, S. T. Stuart. OFFICERS:

MISCELLANEOUS READING.

THE "OLD DOMINION." This term is universally applied to Virginia though but little is known of its origin.-

In the Masachusetts Historical Society collection there is a coin with a head on one side and the legend "Georgius III. Rex.," on the other side a shield with the arms of England, Scotland, Ireland and Virginia .-A crown surrounds the whole, encircled with the words "Virginia, 1773." A similar coin has since been dug up, and a brief statement of the facts which these coins authenticate may not be devoid of interest.

During the usurpation of Cromwell, Virginia declared herself independent of his authority, when the usurper threatened to send a fleet to reduce the colony. Fearing to withstand such a force, the colonists despatched in a small ship a messenger to Charles II., then an exile in Flanders, inviting the royal outcast to be their King. He accepted the invitation, and on the very eve of embarking for his new throne in America, was recalled to the crown of England. In gratitude for Virginian loyalty he quartered her coat of arms with those of England, Scotland and Ireland as an independent member of the British empire. The coin establishes these facts .-Hence the origin of the phrase "Old Domin

The Colonists of that period numbered 20, 000, and the Protector declared then to be notorious robbers and traitors, prohibiting by his authority all intercourse with them. A fleet was sent over under Sir George Ayscue to put down any traces of monarchical authority still lingering among the Virginia loyalists. They were firm to Charles and the Parliament, declaring that they were born under a monarchy, and would never degenerate from the condition of their birth by being subject to any other government. When the expedition, however, reached the Chesapeake, to expel Sir Wm. Berkeley, the Governor, from Virginia, resistance was laid aside. Berkeley disdained to make any stipulations for him self, withdrawing to a retired situation, universally respected, until a new revolution summoned him again to defy the republican forces of England, and restore royalty in the Virginia Colony. This happened in March, 1652. Cromwell, however, continued his Governors until 1660, when the last of them. Matthews, died, and the people elected Sir Wil-liam Berkeley, and as the old record says, "by an obliging violence compelled him to accept the government." He refused, however, to act under the usurpation of the Cormwells, unless the colonists pledged their lives and fortunes for the British King, then in exile. "With a unanimous voice they told him that they were ready to hazard all things for the King." The Virginians seem to have been true lovalists, for this took place, as we have noticed, actually before the King's return to England. Berkeley proclaimed "Charles II King of England, Scotland, Ireland and Virginia," before he was in England. Upon his restoration the monarch granted Sir Wil-liam permission to visit England; and it is related that he wore at his coronation a robe made of silk from the Virginia Colony .-Well may the time-honored ancient Common wealth be called the "Old Dominion."-N.

Y. Express. CAUTION .- We beg leave to caution purcha WHISKIES against the deception and petty fraud which is practiced by certain parties in this city and in Baltimore, who have appropriated to themselves exact copies of the Star Brands, long used and designed by us to distinguish our Old Whiskeys. We can assure our friends and customers, that the unrivalled quality, everywhere acknowledged, of our choice OLD WHISKIES, cannot be equalled by these ingenious invaders of our rights.
